By ROB KREHBIEL
Staff Writer

The Interfraternity Council reaffirmed this year's procedures for rushing last Tuesday afternoon.

Freshmen dorms were closed to all upperclassmen at 7:30 last night, and will remain closed until after formal rush.

A period of silence will be imposed at 10 p.m. Dec. 8 through Jan. 2 at 8 a.m. IFC said that no phone calls will be allowed from fraternity houses to freshmen halls during the period of silence.

Freshmen must pick up their date cards Tuesday morning Jan. 7. A period of silence will begin at noon Tuesday.

Rush parties will be held on Thursday and Friday nights and Saturday and Sunday afternoons, Jan. 9-12. IFC said that no drinking of alcoholic beverages by freshmen men or freshmen will be permitted during the parties.

The period of silence will be lifted 15 minutes before the first party each day and will be reimposed 15 minutes after the third party.

Platt: Man Must Make 'Quantum Jump'... Soon

Reynolds lecturer Dr. John R. Platt foresees a new world — if man's potential is developed and everyone is not annihilated before then. Platt, associate director and research biophysicist at the Mental Health Institute of the University of Michigan, spoke Monday evening and at an assembly Tuesday. In his Monday night address, "The Potential of Man," Platt said that in the next 20-25 years, life on

Grocery Owner Plans To Appeal

By NORWOOD POLAND

The state Board of Alcoholic Beverage Control in Raleigh has turned down a Davidson grocer's request for a beer and wine permit.

In a letter this week to Mrs. Colleen Norket, owner of The Davidson Grocery on Depot Street, Enforcement Division Director Lee H. Phillips said, "The establishment cannot be considered a suitable place and or location for the sale of beer and or wine."

"This is an administrative judgment," a state ABC official said in a telephone interview, "but a hearing before the whole board will be granted if requested with in 30 days."

Mrs. Norket said she would ask for a hearing. "I sort of expected this would happen," she said. "It looks like the only way to get a permit is to go through the whole hearing process, which I intend to do. They seem to be trying to delay this as long as possible, though."

The state board official explained the reasons for refusing the permit:

"There was some controversy about this petition in Davidson. We had a letter from the mayor asking us to turn it down, and then there was some question about selling beer in the area of the college."

If Mrs. Norket requests a hearing, the Raleigh office will set a date for any interested parties to appear before the board to present their cases, the official said. A brief will be drawn up after the hearing, and the state board will then make its final decision based on this information.

Mrs. Norket said further pursuit of the matter through administrative channels could entail additional expense. While she could represent herself personally before the board, she said, it may become necessary to hire a lawyer to get the permit.

If Mrs. Norket receives a permit, it will allow for the sale of beer and wine only, and would be the first such permit issued for Davidson.

Cashion's Food Stores of Cornelius had to go through the entire hearing process before finally obtaining permission to sell beer at their Huntersville store several years ago. Cashion's was granted the permit in spite of a number of petitions opposing alcohol sales there.

College Receives Grant

A grant of $500,000 to Davidson College from the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation was announced today by Dr. Samuel R. Spencer Jr., president of the college.

The funds will be added to Davidson's endowment, primarily to help it meet the demands of the new curriculum, Spencer said.

"This addition to our endowment comes at a particularly important time if Davidson is going to meet its commitments to a new generation," President Spencer commented. "Our new curriculum demands additional faculty members and great increases in our library stocks, both of which require vastly increased financial resources."

The foundation has previously given Davidson $1,875,000 in endowment funds since 1964. In addition the Reynolds family has established at Davidson the R. J. Reynolds Memorial Professorship in Biology, the Mary Reynolds Babcock Professorship in History, the Virginia Laxister Irvin Professorship in English, the R. J. Reynolds Jr. Distinguished Lectures Fund, the $250,000 Babcock Library Wing, the Kate B. Reynolds Fund, as well as the support of many individuals associated with the Reynolds family and their business interests, Dr. Spencer said.

Faculty To Study Chapel Proposals

By STEPHEN ROADY
Staff Writer

The recommendations on chapel policy made by the student Senate the week before Thanksgiving will not come before the faculty until after the Christmas holidays, according to Associate Dean of Faculty J. H. Ostwald and Dean of Students Richard C. Burtis Jr.

The three-point proposal offered by the Senate committee on chapel sessions recommended that assemblies be reduced to eight per term. Four would be programs involving extra-campus speakers and the other four would be school-related programs. The Senate also recommended a 50 percent cut limit in chapel attendance and the formation of a committee composed of two senators, two members of the Union Board, two students at large, the college chaplain and one faculty member to plan and coordinate chapel sessions. Chaplain Scott Woodmansee, the present assembly coordinator, said he was in general agreement with the recommendations offered by the Senate committee.

Czech Service Set For Today

A "service of compassion" for the Czechs and other oppressed people will be conducted by faculty and students at 5 p.m. today in Lingle Chapel.

"This will be a non-political, positively oriented worship service," explained Professor W. E. Jackson, one of the organizers of the program. "We simply want to express through worship our compassion and concern for the Czechs and other oppressed peoples as human beings."

Jackson noted that the theme of the service is intended to be harmonious with the Christmas season. "We would like anyone, regardless of religious affiliation, to attend if he so desires."

Three Seek Handbook Editorship

Three juniors are vying today in a junior class election for the editorship of the Wildcat Handbook.

Seeking the post are David Branch, Tom Hendren and Allen Lewis. They were nominated by the Publications Board Nov. 25 despite the fact none has ever worked on the handbook.

Polls opened this morning in the lobby of Chambers at 7:30. Election Board Chairman Frank Murphy said they would remain open until 2:40 this afternoon. Voting is limited to juniors.

Two earlier attempts to hold the election — on Nov. 20 and again two days ago — were thwarted by a lack of interested candidates and a lack of communication between the Publications Board and Murphy.

The winning candidate today will name the other members of his staff.

CHRISTMAS VESPERS

Davidson's annual Christmas Vespers Service will feature a "Festival of Nine Lessons and Carols," an ancient form of service for group worship, at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Davidson College Presbyterian Church.

The "Festival" form of service is widely used in England and is growing in popularity in the United States, according to the College Chaplain Scott Woodmansee, who will lead the worship. It was first used many years ago at King's College Chapel, Cambridge, he said.

Union Cafeteria's 'C' Rating Brings Continuing Inquiries

By DICK ANDERSON
Asst. Managing Editor

Although state Health Department inspectors removed the Union cafeteria's "C" rating certificate Nov. 22, inquiry into the food service situation continued this week. Cafeteria Manager Klaus Kleeberg and Business Manager Robert A. Currie met with the Student Life Committee Tuesday to discuss the situation.

"We discussed the cafeteria program and decided to set up a student food committee," said senior Randy Phillips, a student committee member. "This committee would meet with Mr. Kleeberg and provide a channel for student complaints and suggestions."

Currie, Kleeberg and Sam W. Boyle, assistant director of the College Union, agreed that food preparation was not at fault in the low rating, blaming instead a "contamination of factors."

"The inspector came in during the after-breakfast clean-up when the cafeteria was in a shambles," Boyle said. He said an inspector should rather mark off for cleaning or order it to be fixed without counting off percentage points in the inspection.

Currie said that the Oct. 29 report of the Union Food Service Committee was under study by college officials. He and Kleeberg were to meet yesterday to look further at the report, which dealt with problems such as a better snack bar and catering service as well as with the cafeteria itself.

"However, the buck stops here; I'm responsible for the entire food service area," Currie said.

spection. "The inspector came back last Friday and said there would be no problem with getting an 'A' rating," Boyle said.

However, Sterling Abernethy, a member of the Union Board's Food Service Committee, which submitted suggestions for improvement in the food service earlier this fall, said the sanitation of the cafeteria was still bad. "Ice is still served in garbage cans placed on the floor where dirt, spilled drinks and food and insects contaminate it," he said.

He added that he saw water standing on the floors of the kitchen at night after the "C" rating was given, and mold growing on stale desserts served after the "C" rating.

If the voting population of a country approved this method of contraception, shoppers could conceivably buy their groceries at contraceptive and non-contraceptive stores, he said. And the resulting children would be wanted, not accidental progeny.

In his Tuesday assembly address, "Two Faces of Perception," he discarded the old concept of objectivism — the idea that a man may simply look at an object without becoming involved in what his eyes perceive, for example.

Instead, true perception comes only when man is totally involved with his environment. Platt dealt with the nature of perception in the context of his view of man as an animal inextricably bound to the world around him.
